FULL PRESENTATION

Three Blind Mice — inventive, infectious acoustic swing.

Trumpet, guitar and double bass: three musical partners, three personalities, a whole orchestra between them. Malo Mazurié, Félix Hunot and Sébastien Girardot combine virtuosity, inventive arrangements and the sheer pleasure of playing together to create acoustic swing that is lively, elegant and full of surprises. Félix's vocals and the trio's close musical conversation expand this drumless sound even further.

Inspired by the great masters of jazz, the trio approaches the repertoire with freedom, humour and thoroughly contemporary energy. That same chemistry drives two distinct programmes: Silence, Action… Jazz!, a live silent-film concert with music and sound effects performed alongside the films, and A Swingin' ChristMice, their festive Christmas concert.

EDUCATION AND ENCOUNTERS

Three Blind Mice are also three young dads who love music and enjoy sharing with children the things that fascinate them too: listening, playing together, inventing and telling a story through sound. In Silence, Action… Jazz!, pupils watch short films on a large screen while the trio creates the music and sound effects live. They see both the film and the musicians making its sound world in real time. The session naturally opens onto rhythm, improvisation, the relationship between image and music, instruments, sound effects and the way three musicians coordinate to bring a scene to life. Depending on the setting, it can continue with discussion or a short participatory activity.
